SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and There.

The glove contest between Dan O'Donnell, of San Francisco, and Billy Waters, of Victoria, for $150 aside and gate receipts, comes off on Monday evening, at the Philharmonic Hall, commencing at 8:00, and it is a safe thing to say that it will be strictly on its merits, and the faking element for once done away with. The public are guaranteed a good exhibition between local and other talent.

ATHLETICS.

A large number of citizens attended the athletic sports at the Driving park this afternoon by the Victoria football club. The games were well contested and a good exhibition of the position Victoria's young men hold in the world of sports was presented. The street car company put on extra cars and ten minute trips were made to and from town. The music was supplied by the Warspite band and was in no way the least part on the programme. The result of the different races, etc., could not be obtained up to the time of going to press.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Mrs. T. Lubbe will be a passenger for San Francisco by the Walla Walla on Tuesday.

Mr. Maurice W. Kozminski, of Chicago, general western agent of the famous Compagnie Generale Ffench line, came over on the Kingston yesterday on a flying trip of inspection, and expressed himself surprised with the delightful climate. He felt certain that if the inducements Victoria possessed as a pleasure resort were only better known by tourists in the United States east of Chicago, they would flock this way in far greater numbers than ever.

FIRED AT BY NATIVES.

A PARTY OF SEALERS ATTACKED BY INDIANS.

One Man Killed and Two Wounded—Without Food and Water for 24 Hours—Another Party Imprisoned by Russians for Two Days.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The schooner J. H. Lewis, Captain Alexander McLean, arrived this afternoon from the north. On board were H. Raymon, William Jackson, F. Merrill and four others of the C. H. White, who were picked up forty miles off Copper island on Aug. 7. Raymon told a tale of their hardships to a reporter who boarded the schooner. He said: "We left San Francisco on the White on Feb. 15 for a northern hunting cruise. On the morning of August 2nd, while off Copper island, we lowered six boats, with three men in each boat, leaving three men in charge of the schooner. About three o'clock in the afternoon we tried to make our way back to the vessel, but could not find her, as a heavy fog had set, which made our observations difficult. We accordingly went back to shore and remained over night. In the morning the surf was heavy and the wind so strong that we decided to try and make the other side of the island for safety. We kept close to the shore, owing to the fog, and had got around on the side about one and one-half miles, when suddenly we were startled by a rifle report from the shore and the air being filled with whizzing bullets. In our boat was myself, James Kerr and William Jackson. The other boats were a quarter of a mile around the point. Volley after volley was fired on us. The fog was so dense that we could hardly see the shore. Our assailants were hidden behind the cliffs and we could not tell how many they numbered.

Jackson received a wound in the leg but continued to work at the oar. Kerr was shot in the breast; the bullet first going through the stern of the boat. We were pulling hard all this time to get out of range. A second or so afterward I was shot in the breast, over the nipple, and the ball passed through my body and is now lodged in the skin in the back. We managed to reach a gun and fired a call shot to the other boats which had heard the firing. They came to our rescue as fast as they could and towed us out to sea. I do not know who the assailants were, but I believe they they were a tribe of Aleutians. They perhaps mistook us for a party which raided the island some time ago and robbed them. This was their revenge.

A few hours later we returned to where we had slept the night before and there we burried Kerr. He has relatives living some where in this city. Jackson and myself were treated as well as circumstances would permit by the other boat crews. Next morning we started out again to find our vessel. All we had to eat was a piece of seal. We pulled out from 4 o'clock the next morning, and then drifted about for another day and then sighted the Lewis and were picked up.

The steamer Karluck, which arrived from Petropapanlooski a few days ago, brought with her six sailors from the sealing schooner, C. G. White. These men had been out in their boats seal hunting when a fog arose and the schooner was lost sight of. The story of their suffering has been told in part only, according to the statements of the men themselves. Louis Fischer, one of the crew, was seen this morning and if his story can be credited, Capt. Hagemon, the commander of the schooner, will have a long bill of reckoning to account for on his arrival here.

According to Fischer the captain wantonly deserted the men who were out in the boats, abandoned them in open sea and left them to meet a terrible fate. The men drifted around in their boats for three days and three nights without food or water and were finally obliged to land on an island in the Russian possessions, where the penalty of stepping ashore was death.

The sailors were obliged to go to work under orders of a Russian officer. They were treated like slaves. They were afterwards put on the steamer Alexander I, and taken to Petropaulovski, where they were thrown into prison and left there to languish two days without food or water. Through the intercession of the agent of the Alaska Commercial company they were finally released and sent to this city on the Karluk.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Adolph Jordan, a saloonkeeper 52 years of age, attempted to kill his wife Catharine, aged 49, and then take his own life early this morning. He took a common knife and made great gashes in the left wrist of his wife and both his own wrists, and also stabbing himself in his left breast. Both were badly cut but will probably recover. Jordan is a cripple and gave his reason for the deed, despondency over ill health and loss of business. He had repeatedly spoken to his wife of his desire to die, and she had told him that they must die together. Several times he was about to commit the deed but his courage had failed him and his wife had called him a coward. Last night, however, he determined to end both their lives, with the above result.

Jilted the Parson.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12.—The jilting of Rev. J. A. Atwood, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, of this city, by Miss Eva Davis, the milionaire's daughter, has set social circles into a whirl of excitement. They were to have been married yesterday, and elaborate preparations had been made for the wedding. The guests who had been invited included all the leaders of society, and the unexpected announcement that the wedding would not take place was a severe blow to them. The rector is a poor man, while the lady who jilted him is one of the wealthiest persons in the State. It is stated that the match has from the first been strenuously opposed by the lady's friends.

Not a Professing Christian He Was Tabooed.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—A rather vigorous snub was administered to Mayor Edward A. Noonan a couple of days ago by the congregation of the Century Methodist church, composed of the most influential business men of the city. They concluded recently to give a public reception to Dr. Mathews, a pastor whose term of service of four years is about to expire, and who will under the rules of the Methodist church be transferred to some other pulpit. It was desired to give an official character to the proceedings, and for that purpose a number of public officials, including the mayor, were put on the programme for speeches. The church stewards heard of this, and at once convened in extraordinary session. They decided that the mayor was not a prohibitionist, or even a professing Christian, and decided that it was not proper to have him participate in the exercises. The disagreement became so serious that the whole scheme had to be dropped, and a private reception for church members only was substituted. Members of the church are reticent about the affair, and the mayor has not expressed an opinion on the subject.

A RUDE JUDGE.

One of those Cases in which Authority Overcomes Reason.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 13.—Lawyers who practice before the United States circuit court in this city feel that they have been treated in a very disagreeable way by Judge Caldwell, who made his first appearance on the bench here this week. Gentlemen who practice before him were accustomed to gentlemanly conduct from his predecessor, Judge Brewer. The trouble began last Monday morning almost with the opening of court, when New judge appeared to be very irascible and snubbed the lawyers one after another. It was a little worse if anything on Tuesday. The attorneys began to show their indignation. This apparently made matters worse, for on Wednesday their treatment was such that the lawyers began to openly revolt. They say Judge Caldwell's treatment is outrageous, and if there is not a change they will unite in a petition for his release. One of the most prominent attorneys of the state is Jas. Smith, whom Caldwell treated so severely that he was compelled to leave the court room.

FIGHTING FOR PRECEDENCE.

Too Many Cooks Very Likely to Spoil the Broth.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—There is another clash at the World's Fair headquarters, and the outcome of it may be the appointment of two directors-general. The national commission and local directors have been in conflict for the past two weeks on a question of authority. They have crossed each other on several occasions, and now they are fighting about the director-generalship. Hastings, of Pennsylvania, was thought to be the choice of the national commission, but it is understood that Smalley, of Vermont, who is a member of the commission, and a democrat, is in favor of ex-Congressman Stephenson, of Bloomington, Ill. Stephenson is a democrat and Hastings is a republican. Each wants the prize, and it is possible there will be a fierce fight for it when the commissioners meet here next week. Ex-Congressman Geo. R. Davis will be director-general of the local directory if it is decided to have directory generals. Unless the two bodies get together and patch up a peace there are many who believe the fair will be ruled by just such mulcishness as that exhibited by the local board to-day.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

A Woman Murdered and Her Tongue Torn Out.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The dead body of Frauiske Hanroke, a Bohemian woman, 40 years of age, was discovered by the police in the rear of 439 South Canal street, this morning. Jas. Fleizk, who also lives at that address, saw the body of the woman in the alley, but said afterward he did not report it because he thought the woman drunk and asleep. The woman kept house for John Puzjack. His story is that she left the house during the night, fell down stairs and was killed. When found the woman's tongue was missing. Puzjack was arrested and locked up, and was subsequently interviewed by Inspector O'Donnell, who failed to elicit much information from him. An examination of the body showed that murder had been committed, and that it was of the most brutal description. It was at first thought that the woman's tongue had been cut off but more careful examination showed it had been torn out by the roots, probably in the fight. Neighbors of Puzjack said the couple frequently quarreled, and the theory of the police is that the man and woman fought last night and the woman then received her injuries. The coroner's jury decided to hold Puzjack, pending an investigation. There were many bruises on the body such as could not have been inflicted by a fall.

What Next?

Physicians connected with the Presbyterian Hospital are highly elated over the fact of their having successfully mended a broken neck. The patient, Harry Reigel, aged fourteen years, fell from an elevator, landing on his head and dislocating his neck, on May 8. When brought to the hospital the case was considered hopeless, but by experiments with extending weights attached to the patient's head and feet the neck was eventually set and kept in place by means of a plaster of Paris jacket. The displaced bones are now properly set and the patient has full power of the body.—Globe.

Baby Buggies, the finest and largest assortment in the city at low prices, from $9.50 up, at J. Sehl's 66 Government street.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

THE QUESTION OF PRECEDENCE IN QUEBEC.

A Cardinal Refuses to Come After the Admiral of the Fleet—He Thinks His Seat is Next to Princes of Royal Blood—His Claim Not Admitted.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Russia has given orders to the governors of Siberia to prevent any further immigration of Chinese into that Province.

It is learned that the recent burning of a brewery in Frankfort, with a serious loss of life, was the work of a discharged workman. After setting fire to the building he opened the vats, allowing 3,000 barrels of liquor to flood the place. He then committed suicide.

Canon Liddon's interment in S. Paul's cathedral will take place next Tuesday with elaborate ceremonies.

CANADIAN NEWS.

The Halifax Squadron Shortly to be Re-inforced.

HALIFAX, Sept. 13.—It is stated that another warship is to be added to the North American squadron, and when the new fort at York redoubt is completed, several large guns of the most approved pattern will be sent out by the war office, and mounted there. In last night's manœuvres one soldier had his leg broken, and another narrowly escaped having his head blown off by a large gun.

QUESTION OF PRECEDENCE.

Princes of the Church Think They Should Come next to Royal Princes.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—The refusal of Cardinal Taschereau to attend the Vice-Regal banquet Thursday evening last in honor of Prince George and officers of the British fleet, because he was not given precedence over the Admiral of the fleet and commander of the forces, has created renewed interest in the question of precedence, and the claims of the Roman Catholic hierarchy to be recognized before state officials in this country is regarded as preposterous by the clergy of other denominations, and the whole question will come up for discussion during the approaching general conference of the Methodist church. L'Evenment in explaining the incident says Cardinal Taschereau based his refusal on the fact that at a dinner the order of precedence as accepted and followed in England were not acted upon. It is claimed that at an official dinner in the United Kingdom cardinals, who are princes of the church come immediately after princes of royal blood. His Eminence therefore thinks he should be given precedence after Prince George. It seems, however, the only basis for the statement that England's cardinals are accorded such rank as that claimed is the fact that at a recent conference or committee meeting the Prince of Wales according to Cardinal Manning on account of his personal eminence and reverend age, a position next to himself.

HISTORY OF THE MAHDI.

How He Curbed His Fanaticism Till the Proper Time Arrived.

LONDON, Sept. 12—Much indignation is expressed in France over the fact that Samudoo, the so-called first African Mahdi, who recently made a treaty of friendship with the English, followed up the treaty by purchasing from the British a large quantity of guns and cartridges, and thereupon proceeded to attack the French. Notwithstanding his guns he got the worst of the fight, his favorite commander, Savas Pasha, being killed in a hand-to-hand fight with a French lieutenant of the Senegal's troops. Samudoo is now engaged in rousing the people of western Soudan for an attack on the French.

He is said to be as peculiar an individual as the original mahdi, who caused so much trouble to the British in Egypt. Born in the kingdom of Bornu, his mother was a Nubian slave to the Arabs. His father took care of him, and as he grew up he became imbued with the idea that it was his mission to restore the supremacy of the prophet in western Africa. The king of Bornu, noticing the young man was ambitious, ordered him to be decapitated as a lesson to other ambitious youths. Samudoo was warned by a friend, said to be one of the sultanas, and he fled to Senegal.

There he curbed his fanaticism under Christian protection, until the disturbance in Bornu tempted him to return. The dissatisfied element secured him as leader and he made himself the master of the country, displaying no little military ability. The king of Bornu was one of his prisoners, and Samudoo sat down to his first dinner in the royal palace with the monarch's head on a plate before him. He is now master of a considerable share of west Africa, and the British have been glad to purchase his friendship.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The steamer Fleetwood, plying between Seattle and Olympia, has gone ashore near McNeil's Island, and on the rising tide tipped over and filled. It is believed she can be saved.

A dispatch from 'Frisco says that owing to the damage received by the George W. Elder on the way down from Alaska, the Alaskan steamer service has been badly crippled. The Pacific Coast Steamship Company has decided to send the steamer Mexico to take the place of the disabled Elder. The Mexico will go in command of Captain Gage, formerly of the Santa Rosa, and will probably remain on the Alaskan line for several months.

HEAVEN'S NEW SONG.

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON ON THE MUSIC OF THE BLEST.

It Will Be Accompanied by the Sound of the Harps of the Redeemed—"God Grant That We May All Join in Singing It."

BROOKLYN, Sept. 7.—Dr. Talmage's sermon for today was a flowing description of the melodies of the Celestial land. His text was, "And they sang a new song."—Rev. v, 9. Following is the sermon:

Nearly all the cities of Europe and America have conservatories of music and associations whose object it is by voice and instrument to advance the art of sweet sounds. On Thursday nights Exeter hall, of London, used to resound with the music of first class performers, who gave their services gratuitously to the masses, who came in with free tickets and huzzaed at the entertainment. At Berlin at 11 o'clock daily the military band, with sixty or a hundred instruments, discourses at the Royal Opera house for the people. On Easter Sunday in Dresden the boom of cannon and the ringing of bells bring multitudes to the churches to listen to the organ peals and the exciting sounds of trumpet and drum. When the great fair day of Leipsic comes the bands of music from far and near gather in the street and bewilder the ear with incessant playing of flute and horn, violin and bassoon. At Dusseldorf once a year the lovers of music assemble, and for three or four days wait upon the great singing festivals, and shout at the close of the choruses, and greet the successful competitors as the prizes are distributed—cups and vases of silver and gold. All our American cities at times resound with orchestra and oratorio. Those who can sing well or play skillfully upon instruments are greeted with vociferation and garlanded by excited admirers.

THE GLORIES OF HEAVEN.

There are many whose most ecstatic delight is to be found in melodies, and all the splendor of celestial gates, and all the lusciousness of twelve manner of fruits, and all the rush of floods from under the throne of God would not make a heaven for them if there were no great and transporting harmonies. Passing along our streets in the hour of worship you hear the voice of sacred melody, although you do not enter the building. And passing along the street of heaven we hear, from the temple of God and the Lamb, the breaking forth of magnificent jubilate. We may not yet enter in among the favored throng, but God will not deny us the pleasure of standing a while on the outside to hear. John listened to it a great while ago, and "they sang a new song."

Let none aspire to that blessed place who have no love for this exercise, for although it is many ages since the thrones were set, and the harps were strung, there has been no cessation in the song, excepting once for about thirty minutes; and, judging from the glorious things now transpiring in God's world, and the ever accumulating triumphs of the Messiah, that was the last half hour that heaven will ever be silent.

HEAVEN'S SONG A NEW SONG.

Mark the fact that this was a new song. Sometimes I have in church been floated away upon some great choral, in which all our people seemed to mingle their voices, and I have, in the glow of my emotions, said: "Surely this is music good enough for heaven." Indeed I do not believe that "Luther's Hymn," or "Coronation," or "Old Hundred," or "Mount Pisgah" would sound ill if spoken by sainted lips or thrummed from seraphic harps. There are many of our fathers and mothers in glory who would be slow to shut heaven's gate against these old time harmonies. But this we are told is a new song. Some of our greatest anthems and chorals are compositions from other tunes—the sweetest parts of them gathered up into the harmony; and I have sometimes thought that this "new song" may be partly made up of sweet strains of earthly music mingled in eternal choral. But it will, after all, be a new song. This I do know, that in sweetness and power it will be something that the ear never heard. All the skill of the oldest harpers of heaven will be flung into it. All the love of God's heart will ring from it. In its cadences the floods will clap their hands, and it will drop with the sunlight of everlasting day and breathe with odors from the blossoms of the tree of life. "A new song"—just made for heaven.

Many earthly songs are written by composers just for the purpose of making a tune, and the land is flooded with note books in which really valuable tunes are the exception. But once in a while a man is wrought up by some great spectacle, or moved by some terrible agony, or transported by some exquisite gladness, and he sits down to write a tune or a hymn in which every note or every word is a spark dropped from the forge of his own burning emotions. So Mendelssohn wrote, and so Beethoven, and so Charles Wesley. Cowper, depressed with misfortunes until almost insane, resolved on suicide, and asked the cab driver to take him to a certain place where he expected to destroy his own life. The cab driver lost his way, and Cowper began to think of his sin, and went back to his home, and sat down and wrote:

God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm.

Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take;
The clouds you so much dread
Are big with mercy and shall break
In blessings on your head.

Mozart composed his own requiem and said to his daughter Emily, "Play that." And while Emily was playing the requiem Mozart's soul went up on the wave of his own music into glory. Emily looked around and her father was dead.

OF A WAVE OF MELODY TO GLORY.

This new song of heaven was not composed, because heaven had nothing else to do, but Christ, in memory of cross and crown, of manger and throne, of earth and heaven, and wrought upon by the raptures of the great eternity, poured this from his heart, made it for the armies of heaven to shout in celebration of victory, for worshipers to chant in their temple services, for the innumerable home circles of heaven to sing in the house of many mansions. If a new tune be started in church there is only here and there a person who can sing it. It is some time before the congregation learn a new tune. But not so with the new song of heaven. The children who went up today from the waters of the Ganges are now singing it. That Christian man or woman who a few minutes ago departed from this very street has joined it. All know it—those by the gates, those on the river bank, those in the temple. Not feeling their way through it, or halting or going back, as if they never before had sung it, but with a full, round voice they throw their soul into this new song. If some Sabbath day a few notes of that anthem should travel down the air we could not sing it. No organ could roll its thunders. No harp could catch its trill. No flute could announce its sweetness. Transported, lost, enchanted, dumb, we could not hear it—the faintest note of the new song. Yet while I speak heaven's cathedral quakes under it, and seas of glory bear it from beach to beach, and ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands sing it—"the new song."

IT IS A COMMEMORATIVE SONG.

Further, it is a commemorative song. We are distinctly told that it makes a reference to past deliverances. Oh, how much have they to sing about. They sing of the darkness through which on earth they passed, and it is a night song. That one was killed at Yorktown, and with him it is a battle song. That one was imprisoned for Christ's sake, and with him it is a prison song. That was a Christian sailor boy that had his back broken on the ship's halyards, and with him it is a sailor's song. That one burned at Smithfield, and with him it is a fire song. Oh! how they will sing of floods waded, of fires endured, of persecutions suffered, of grace extended! Song of hail! Song of sword! Song of hot lead! Song of axe! As when the organ pipes peal out some great harmony, there comes occasionally the sound of the tremulante, weeping through the cadences, adding exquisiteness to the performances, so amid the stupendous acclaim of the heavenly worshipers shall come tremulous remembrances of past endurance, adding a sweetness and glory to the triumphal strain. So the glorified mother will sing of the cradle that death robbed, and the enthroned spirit from the almshouse will sing of a lifetime of want. God may wipe away all tears, but not the memory of the grief that started them!

THE HARPS OF THE BLEST.

Further, it will be an accompanied song. Some have a great prejudice against musical instruments; and even among those who like them there is an idea that they are unauthorized. I love the cymbals, for Israel clapped them in triumph at the Red Sea. I love the harp, for David struck it in praising the Lord. I love the trumpet, for we are told that it shall wake the dead. I love all stringed instruments and organs, for God demands that we shall praise him on stringed instruments and organs. There is in such music much to suggest the higher worship, for I read that when he had taken the book the four-and-twenty elders fell down before the lamb, having every one of them "harps," and "I heard the voice of the harpers harping with their harps," and "I saw them that had gotten the victory from the beast standing on the sea of glass, having the harps of God."

Yes, the song is to be accompanied. You say that all this is figurative. Then I say prove it. I do not know how much of it is literal and how much of it is figurative. Who can say but that from some of the precious woods of earth and heaven there may not be made instruments of celestial accord? In that worship David may take the harp, and Habakkuk the shiglonoth; and when the great multitudes shall, following their own inclinations, take up instruments sweeter than Mozart ever fingered, or Schumann ever dreamed of, or Beethoven ever wrote for, let all heaven make ready for the burst of stupendous minstrelsy and the roll of the eternal orchestra!

AN ANTICIPATIVE SONG.

Further, it will be an anticipative song. Why, my friends, heaven has hardly begun yet. If you had taken the opening piece of music today for the whole service you would not have made so great a mistake as to suppose that heaven is fully inaugurated. Festal choruses on earth last only a short while. The famous musical convocation at Dusseldorf ended with the fourth day. Our holidays last only eight or ten days; but heaven, although singing for so many years, has only just begun "the new song." If the glorified inhabitants recount past deliverances they will also enkindle at glories to come. If at 9 o'clock, when the church opened, you had taken the few people who were scattered through it as the main audience, you would not have made so great a mistake as if you supposed that the present population of heaven are to be its chief citizenship. Although millions are already there, the inhabitants are only a handful compared with the future populations. All China is yet to be saved. All India is yet to be saved. All Borneo is yet to be saved. All Switzerland is yet to be saved. All Italy is yet to be saved. All Spain is yet to be saved. All Russia is yet to be saved. All France is yet to be saved. All England is yet to be saved. All America is yet to be saved. All the world is yet to be saved. After that there may be other worlds to conquer. I do not know but that every star that glitters in our nights is an inhabited world, and that from all those spheres a mighty host are to march into our heaven. There will be no gate to keep them out. We do not want to keep them out. We will not want to keep them out. God will not want to keep them out.

I have sometimes thought that all the millions of earth that go into glory are but a very small colony compared with the influx from the whole universe. God could build a heaven large enough not only for the universe but for 10,000 universes. I do not know just how it will be, but this I know—that heaven is to be constantly augmented, and that the song of glory is rising higher and higher and the procession is being multiplied. If heaven sang when Abel went up—the first soul that ever left earth for glory—how must it sing now when souls go up in flocks from all Christendom, hour by hour and moment by moment?

THERE'LL BE NO PARTING THERE.

Our happy gatherings on earth are chilled by the thought that soon we must separate. Thanksgiving and Christmas days come, and the rail trains flying thither are crowded. Glad reunions take place. We have a time of great enjoyment. But soon it is "Good-by" in the hall, "Good-by" at the door, "Good-by" on the street, "Good-by" at the rail train, "Good-by" at the steamboat wharf. We meet in church. It is good to be here. But soon the doxology will be sung, the benediction pronounced, and the audience will be gone. But there are no separations, no good-bys in heaven. At the door of the house of many mansions no good-bys. At the pearly gate no good-bys. The song will be more pleasant because we are always to sing it. Mightier song as our other friends come in. Mightier song as other garlands are set on the brow of Jesus. Mightier song as Christ's glories unfold.

If the first day we enter heaven we sing well the next day we sing better. Song anticipative of more light, of more love, of more triumphs. Always something new to hear, something new to see. Many good people suppose that we shall see heaven the first day we get there. No! You cannot see London in two weeks. You cannot see Rome in six weeks. You cannot see Venice in a month. You cannot see the great city of the New Jerusalem in a day. No; it will take all eternity to see heaven, to count the towers, to examine the trophies, to gaze upon the throne, to see the hierarchs. Ages on ages roll, and yet heaven is new! The streets new! The temple new! The joy new! The song new!

I stayed a week at Niagara Falls, hoping thoroughly to understand it and appreciate it. But on the last day it seemed newer and more incomprehensible than on the first day. Gazing on the infinite rush of celestial splendors, where the oceans of delight meet and pour themselves into the great heart of God, how soon will we exhaust the song? Never! Never!

THE SONG WILL NEVER BE EXHAUSTED.

The old preachers, in describing the sorrows of the lost, used to lift up their hands and shout, "The wrath to come!" "The wrath to come!" Today I lift up my hands, and looking toward the great future cry, "The joy to come!" "The bliss to come!" Oh, to wander on the banks of the bright river, and yet to feel that a little further down we shall find still brighter floods entering into it! Oh, to stand a thousand years, listening to the enchanting music of heaven, and then to find out that the harpers are only tuning their harps!

Finally, I remark that it will be a unanimous song. There will, no doubt, be some to lead, but all will be expected to join. It will be grand congregational singing. All the sweet voices of the redeemed! Grand music it will be when that new song arises. Luther sings it. Charles Wesley sings it. Lowell Mason sings it. Our voices now may be harsh and our ears uncultivated, but, our throats cleared at last and our capacities enlarged, you and I will not be ashamed to utter our voices as loudly as any of them.

Those nations that have always been distinguished for their capacity in song will lift up their voices in that melody. Those who have had much opportunity to hear the Germans sing will know what idea I mean to give when I say that the great German nation will pour their deep, full voices into the new song. Everybody knows the natural gift of the African for singing. No singing on this continent like that of the colored churches in the south. Everybody going to Richmond or to Charleston wants to hear the Africans sing. But when not only Ethiopia, but all that continent of darkness, lifts up its hands, and all Africa pours her great volume of voice into the new song—that will be music for you. Added to this are all the sixteen thousand millions of children that are estimated to have gone into glory, and the host of young and old that hereafter shall people the earth and inhabit the stars.

OH! THE NEW SONG.

Oh! the new song! Gather it all up! Multiply it with every sweetness! Pour into it every harmony! Crown it with every gladness! Belt it with every splendor! Fire it with every glory! Toss it to the greatest height of majesty! Roll it to the grandest cycle of eternity!—and then you have but the faintest conception of what John experienced when, amidst the magnificence of apocalyptic vision, he heard it—the new song!

God grant that at last we may all sing it. But if we do not sing the praise of Christ upon earth we will never sing it in heaven. Be sure that your hearts are now attuned for the heavenly worship. There is a cathedral in Europe with an organ at each end. Organ answers organ, and the music waves backward and forward with indescribable effect. Well, my friends, the time will come when earth and heaven will be but different parts of one great accord. It will be joy here and joy there! Jesus here and Jesus there! Trumpet to trumpet! Organ to organ! Hallelujah to hallelujah! "Until the day break and the shadows flee away, turn, my beloved, and be thou like a roe or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether!"

A SHARK STORY.

An Adventure With Man-Eaters in the Gulf Stream.

Captain Joe Holland is one of the veterans of Lake Worth, Florida, and here is his latest fishing adventure while on his last trip from the Bermudas a few weeks ago. The captain's pet boat is a small sloop, and his crew consists of himself, a stalwart mulatto and a pet monkey. The latter had been taught to haul ropes and do many other things of that kind. When out from the islands on their last trip and in the Gulf Stream they encountered a school of sharks. The captain, it appears, tried every way to get rid of his unwelcome followers, but of no avail, as they clung closer than a debtor, and night or day their ugly-looking fins and shovel-shaped noses were clearly visible close by.

While proceeding along under easy sail the captain began practising on the sharks with his rifle, while Emanuel, the mulatto, tried his skill with an old fish harpoon. The captain finally wounded one and the whole school turned on it as its blood began to flow, and a terrible commotion began near the vessel. To add to the confusion Emanuel struck a big one, too, and its frantic struggles, coupled with the streams of blood which flowed from its wounds, soon brought up all the man-eaters within a mile, as the captain said. The huge ugly creatures plunged around about the vessel striking at the wounded ones and taking great pieces out of their sides. The fight grew furious, the sharks jumping out of the water and rushing at each other with wide-open mouths armed with such ugly-looking sets of teeth, as the captain says, fairly made his blood run cold. In all over forty big sharks were engaged in the scrimmage, and the commotion they caused was terrible.

The captain and Emanuel both feared that this fight would do them damage, as every once in a while a resounding thud on the boat's bottom would show that the ravenous creatures cared little for such a vessel as theirs. All of a sudden a big fifteen-foot wounded shark rose a short distance off, with another, double his size, in pursuit. He rushed on, and in a jiffy had sprung right into the boat, and the other followed. It is hard to say who was the most surprised, the sharks or the captain and his crew. The monkey flew up the mast, chattering with fright, while Emanuel sought safety on the bowsprit and the captain jumped into the cabin. The two big fish floundered around in the boat, the sides being just high enough to prevent their getting over again. The boat rocked to and fro frightfully as the huge sharks kicked about, and Captain Joe says he expected to go to Davy Jones' locker at any moment. The sharks both lay with their heads toward the bow and their tails near the cabin door.

Venturing forth after a while the captain seized an axe and, standing near the door, he brought it down with all his strength upon the tail of the big fellow. The effect was electrical. Up went the flukes with a tremendous whisk, and, while the axe went out to sea a dozen rods, the captain was whirled backward into the ocean, just catching the rudder post as he fell. Emanuel thought that the captain had gone for good, and he halloed outright in his fright. The captain's voice, somewhat choked with salt water, reassured him, and the brave fellow ran nimbly down the side of the boat, jumped over one of the sharks and, on reaching the stern, helped the captain up from his perilous position.

After the skipper had recovered they started for the sharks again. With an adze and the rifle active warfare was begun. Blow after blow was landed on the tough hides of the plunging monsters, while they thrashed about in the most lively manner, the little boat creaking in every timber from the shock. Finally Jocko came running down the shrouds to take a hand in the fight. He picked up a belaying pin, and creeping up to one of the sharks, brought it down with stunning effect on the man-eater's head. The huge fish jumped for it with wide open mouth, but the nimble monkey jumped out of the way and came back with another blow. Notwithstanding their serious predicament, the captain and his ally could hardly keep from laughing at the spectacle. But the most serious part of the fight was now over, and the vicious looking sea-tigers lay gasping out their lives as the men rained blows upon them.

All this while the monsters outside kept up their infernal warfare on each other, and the sea was blood-colored for a considerable distance. Over a dozen bodies floated to the surface, some half eaten and others with many gaping wounds in their sides. The two on deck were finally killed and they were thrown overboard. The deck was slippery from their blood, and as Emanuel stood by the gunwales a sudden lurch threw him over. A hoarse cry and in he went right among the sharks, now furious with their bloody feast. The captain rushed up and threw a rope, but Emanuel was nowhere to be seen. Soon a commotion was observed some twenty feet away, and his head emerged suddenly from the water, and he shot up in sight riding astride one of the sharks.

Emanuel was blue with fright, but he jabbed his queer steed with his big knife that he always had in his belt, and the vicious monster plunged forward, fortunately carrying him nearer the boat. Recovering from his astonishment, the captain flung forward another rope, which, fortunately, Emanuel caught. Rising up on the shark's back, Emanuel took the rope with a firm grip and jumped for the boat. Several of the monsters plunged at him as he fell among them, but by some strange good luck they missed him, and the captain hauled him on board, one shark just nipping off a bit of his heel as he was hauled over the side.—Globe-Democrat.

A Little Child Shall Lead Them.

A gentleman was once lecturing in the neighborhood of London. In the course of his address he said: "All have influence. Do not say, poor as I am, I have none; everyone has some influence. There was a rough man at the other end of the room, with a little girl in his arms. "Everybody has influence, even that little child," said the lecturer, pointing to her. "That's true, sir," cried the man. Everybody looked round, of course, but the man said no more, and the lecturer proceeded. At the close the man came up to the gentleman and said, "I beg your pardon, sir, but I could not help speaking. I was a drunkard; but as I did not like to go to the public house alone, I used to carry this child. As I came near the public house one night, hearing a great noise inside, she said 'Don't go, father.' 'Hold your tongue, I say.' Presently I felt a big tear on my cheek. I could not go a step farther, I turned round and went home, and have never been in a public-house since—thank God for it. I am now a happy man, sir, and this little girl has done it; and when you said that even she had influence I could not help saying, 'That's true, sir; all have influence.'"

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests in the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

In respect to Sir HECTOR's visit and the gifts of his bounty required of him by the Colonist, we heartily reciprocate that which refers to "barrack accommodation." We most respectfully request that Sir HECTOR will set this vexed question at rest. Barrack accommodation has too long occupied Col. PRIOR's valuable time. Important questions of State policy will soon be presented for the consideration of Parliament, and the gallant colonel should have an opportunity to exercise his faculties untrammelled with considerations of the lodgement of soldiery. In respect to the powder magazine, it is also hoped that Sir HECTOR will appreciate the necessity for its immediate removal to a locality where a premature explosion would not be attended with consequences disastrous to life and property. Indeed it is our opinion that the removal of the magazine would have been effected long ago had the authorities taken the proper steps in that direction. Respecting the outer wharf it is plainly the duty of the Government to co-operate with Mr. RITHET in making it available for the deepest draught ships. But as we said at the outset, let us have the barrack question settled.

WHAT ARE THE CHANCES FOR RECIPROCITY.

The Colonist, discussing the United States tariff, concedes that the operation of the MCKINLEY bill will be adverse to Canadian interests, and then winds up with the remark that the "illiberal trade policy of the United States is not likely to do Canada permanent harm." We fail to see how these two statements can be harmonized. If the trade policy of the United States is adverse to Canadian interests, it is likely to continue so until that line of policy is abandoned. Contemplate the trade isolation of the New England States from the rest of the Union and regard that as a feature likely to be kept up, and we have a situation not unlike that of Canada's. Protectionists affect to believe that there seems to be an escape for Canada, that in spite of the illiberality of the American policy, Canada will find a means of disposing of her surplus products. The manner of escape, however, they fail to point out. The wish, evidently, is father to the thought. The promised relief to Canada, certain sanguine persons hold, will come in the shape of reciprocity. We confess we have less hope in this direction, than we had a year ago. It matters not that BLAINE has spoken for reciprocity and that SHERMAN and others, including several leading American journals, have followed suit. HALE said distinctly, the other day, speaking for BLAINE, that Canada was not included in their reciprocal intentions. BLAINE's eyes are pointed in the direction of Central and South America. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York are opposed to reciprocity. Now, supposing a reciprocity clause does get the sanction of Congress? May we suppose that either the republicans or the democrats will feel strong enough to invite reciprocity with Canada at the expense of the alienation of these States? A limited form of reciprocity might indeed be had, but shall we suppose that these four States will consent to compete against Canadian barley, and the Canadian hen? Although we feel assured that the general sentiment in the United States to-day is for reciprocity, there is a likelihood of an exception being made in the case of Canada by reason of the attitude of four border states. Neither party will dare, we apprehend, to cross the wishes of the people of these States. There may be influences at work of which we have no conception that will effect for Canada what she needs in the way of trade relations with her southern neighbor. The Recent Republican victory in Maine, which is a victory for the rank protectionists, seems to augur, however, that whatever these influences are they must be powerful ones to overcome the trade isolation of Canada as contemplated in the MCKINLEY Bill.

WANTS CORRECTING.

"Grip" has a cartoon representing the Premier of this Province in the act of wiping out monopoly. In his left hand he holds a copy of the official Gazette containing, it is to be supposed the order in council declaring that the alienation of crown lands by private sale should cease. In his right he holds a pole labelled "law." Directly in front of the anti-monopolistic gentleman stands portly Monopoly holding in either hand two fat sacks entitled "ground rent," and rent from coal lands." The only correct feature about the cartoon is the profile view of the Premier's face. It is quite true that the Government have ordered the alienation of lands as aforesaid, but to a clear conception of the situation it should have been plainly set forth in the Gazette which the Premier holds in his left hand that he was moved to it by political expediency only, while as to the pointed stick which he holds in his right, that should have been labelled "Opposition Policy" instead of "law." With these slight changes the Premier would have been correctly presented in his new role of an anti-monopolist. The Premier defied Opposition thunder as long as he dared, and then turned round and stole it. The only objections we have to the larceny, however, is that it comes too late in the day. The Government's "tillicums" are all provided for.

THE IMPRACTICABILITY OF UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD.

The Westminster Truth, backed by canned salmon, finds, as might be expected, something inconsistent in the phrase the "Universal brotherhood of Man" as it is employed by labor; and the Colonist backed by coal re-echos, as might be expected, the same platitudinous rot. A team these two war horses of the plutocracy make, indeed. We could wish for the sake of journalism, if not for the sake of humanity, that they took a more enlightened view of things. The universal brotherhood of man! What does that mean? Are there no limitations to it? Does the doctrine of the universal brotherhood of man involve the surrender of self-interest? If so, then by parity of reasoning, capital as well as labor is not exempt from it. We never liked the phrase, not that we would not have the condition it implies exist, but because that condition is impossible as human nature is constituted. The universal brotherhood of man, lived up to to the letter, requires constant deference to fellow interests, co-operative effort, my purse is your purse, your purse is my purse. Needless to remark that the universal brotherhood of man is an idle dream. Its consummation lies beyond the limitations of human nature. But granting that the universal brotherhood of man is possible, and that it should be in operation, are not the obligations it imposes reciprocal, that is to say, may the weak subsist off the strong to the great detriment of the latter? Does not the law of the universal brotherhood of man require that the weak shall be as unselfish as they would have the strong generous? Two men have a crust of bread between them, not enough for both and both live. Shall both share it alike and die, or shall one abstain that the other may live? We give this hypothetical case because in the matter of indiscriminate immigration shall we make this continent the asylum for those worse off than ourselves, when such procedure would involve us both in a common ruin, or shall we refuse them an asylum, and should they, actuated by the idea of universal brotherhood, complain of our selfishness. The man who has a brotherly regard for his fellow will not sponge off him, he will die first. The universal brotherhood of man proclaims loudly the virtue of self denial, but it makes self denial an obligation common to all classes of society and to all nations. And so we take it with regard to Chinese immigration, or any kind of immigration that is slavish and degraded. The application of the law of universal brotherhood to them requires that they should be considerate of our interests. They have no right to demand of us an asylum when the ultimate consequence would be the overwhelming of us all in a common mass of degradation. As, however, we said at the outset, the universal brotherhood business is impracticable. It is too transcendental for this poor world of ours. Man was made to mourn, and that is the end of it. There is a medium in all things, however, a mean between good and evil which we should endeavor to observe. This is what labor demands and all it demands. The labor of this continent has never yet objected to the Chinese as Chinese, but as slaves, as a kind of labor it could not successfully compete against except at ruinous cost. The brotherhood of man does not require of labor a sacrifice like this that salmon canners and colliery owners should roll in wealth. This is the long and short of it. Man was made to mourn, but he was not made to mourn in the interest of heartless syndicates.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Imports into the United States are literally "booming" in anticipation of the adoption of the MCKINLEY tariff. During June and July they amounted to $159,000,000 as compared with $132,000,000 for the same two months of 1889. The August returns are not yet out, but it is expected that they will show an even more remarkable increase. Canada is pouring in farm produce at a great rate just now.

It seems that the desert of Sahara will not be as barren and unprofitable a possession for France as Lord SALISBURY suggested. Extensive schemes of irrigation are talked of, and water has been found in the desert in such vast quantities by means of artesian wells that French engineers are confident of being able to extend their railroad to a distance of a week's journey from Algeria right through the desert.

If the story told by the telegraph about Prince GEORGE and the Mayor of Quebec be true, the incident proves that the Prince knows more than the Mayor and has some backbone as well. The story goes that when the Mayor started to read an address to Prince GEORGE, he began first in French, when the youthful scion of royalty said: "In English first, please Mr. Mayor." The chances are that the incident is exaggerated and that French-Canadians are not so grievously offended as the report states; but if it ever occurred, it will be generally set down to the credit of the Prince that he had the good sense to insist that the language of the empire should be given precedence on the occasion in question.

A Vancouver paper reproduces some post-prandial speculations about the probability of war between Canada and the United States, uttered by the "Father of the National Policy," Sir LEONARD TILLEY. It is not related of the Governor of New Brunswick that he ever called the attention of the Governor of Nova Scotia to the fact (following the example of a certain bibulous American governor) that "it was a long time between drinks," for the amiable and unwarlike ruler of New Brunswick is an apostle of temperance, a high priest in the order now led in the House by JAMIESON. Nevertheless, Sir LEONARD was probably exhilarated—intoxicated with the exhuberance of his spirits—and talked somewhat wildly, as he has been known to do on many occasions when there was no doubt that he was in his sober senses.

Senator QUAY, since sometime back charged with bribery and corruption by the press, and later by Congressman KENNEDY, is at last considering the expediency of rising to explain. He has been for several days in close consultation with his friends in the matter and the probability is he will reply in the shape of a general denial of the charges made supported by affidavits of prominent Pennsylvania Republicans. Mr. QUAY must regard the people of the United States very simple folk to expect acceptance by them of the affidavits of prominent Pennsylvania Republicans as having value as samples of disinterested veracity. The fact that the noble senator has consulted with his friends as to the expediency of replying to the charges made against him shows pretty conclusively that there is a darkey in the wood pile. An honest man would not require to consult his friends.

THE SESSION SUSTAINED.

TO THE EDITOR:—In this morning's Colonist under the above heading, after stating the fact that I had charged the Hon. John Robson with having stated on oath before a secret committee that I had printed and circulated lies, and that this part of his evidence had not been given to the public, the Colonist goes on to say as follows: "The only evidence adduced before the session made out a clear case in denial of the charges, and the complaint was dismissed, and Mr. Muir's name erased from the membership roll of the church." Now, the fact is there was not a particle of evidence adduced as I refused to produce my evidence to the session, until John Robson should confess or deny the charge (which he has not yet had the manliness to do). Any lawyer knows that to furnish the accused person with evidence that could be brought against him, and then ask him to plead guilty or not guilty, would be a farce. I was asked to furnish the session with the evidence in writing which I had to sustain my charge before he would be asked to plead. As Mr. Robson is a member of the session I refused to produce the evidence until he should confess or deny the charge, and because I refused to do so, I was condemned, and I appealed and the Presbytery unanimously decided that it is the rule and custom of the Presbyterian church for the session to have in its possession sufficient evidence in its opinion to convict a member before the accused is asked to plead. As I started the case against John Robson to get him to prove the statement he had made on oath against me, and found that he had slipped out, and I was fighting the session in a left-handed sort of a way, as it had come in between us, I had no desire to appeal further, and for other reasons. Yours truly,

J. N MUIR.

A Curious Piece of Tapestry.

An extraordinary piece of Japanese weaving, which is now at the exhibition in Tokio, will shortly find its way to London, where it will be shown to the public by the owner, probably in Bond street. It is known as tsuzure-ori, or an old world accomplishment in Japan, and one which is frequently used for purposes of illustration and design by Japanese artists. The price asked for it was $10,000, or about £1700. The distinctive feature of this kind of weaving is that the whole margin of the design is perforated like the joining of postage stamps, so that when the whole piece is held up to the light the design of the artist seems to be suspended in the body of the stuff. In Japan this kind of weaving has been regarded as a tour de force of the artist, and it is believed that the piece, which will soon reach this country, is the largest and finest ever produced.

THE MARTYR OF KHARTOUM

The Gregarious on the "Real" Gordon.—A Curious New View of His Character.

The character of General Gordon, the so-called martyr of Khartoum, has always been a puzzle to his friends, be-because it was so full of condictions. Some have thought him a man of genius with a taint of insanity in his blood. Some have thought him a sort of saint in the church militant, and have written his name high on the list of "Christian soldiers," like Havelock, Hodson, or Stonewall Jackson. Colonel Long, an American soldier, who served as chief of staff to Gordon in the Soudan in 1874, describes him as absolutely chaste in life, and incorruptible in all matters of money, "a man who hated woman, hated society, hated the world, and was ambitious" to the degree of moral unscrupulousness. This is certainly not the picture of a hero, or a high-toned man in any comprehensive sense. Long quotes from his diary, under date of April 18, 1875, the following:

"Now," he said, "let us define our positions. You are receiving much reputation for your expeditions. I am risking life here also, but I am getting nothing. Now, what do you wish? Let us divide the government. You take from M'Tesa to Fatiko. I will take the rest"—meaning thence to Khartoum, where he had already announced to me he desired to remove his headquarters. "We will govern here; these people shall not belong either to the Arabs or Turks." The proposition was clearly defined, and not a little startling, and meant simply setting up for ourselves—by revolution.

Gordon intended to establish himself in a kingdom in Central Africa. This was his dream and his return to Soudan in 1884 was the culmination of the ambition he confessed to Colonel Long nearly ten years before. Gordon was a creature like Napoleon, but born out of his time. He believed, like Napoleon, far more in destiny than in any orthodox Christianity. The famous explorer Burton, Gordon's most intimate and devoted friend, wrote of him that he was more fatalistic than any Moslem, and a transition to El Islam would not have been violent." Gordon, Indeed, applied for and sent two sheikhs to the barbarian negro king, M'Tesa, to teach him the Koran. His erratic, or rather errant, morality was shown by the fact that after hanging slave dealers, right and left he afterwards issued a proclamation restoring the slave trade. He convicted an employe of a money theft and promoted the same man to be a pasha a few months afterward. For months he would drink nothing but water, and then prefer water with whisky. He consumed quantities of brandy and soda, a very dangerous tipple in hot climates, and of its effect upon Gordon's singular nervous temperament, Colonel Long says:

He had the habit of shutting himself in his hut, with a flag and hatchet at the door as a sign that he was not to be disturbed. At these times he gave himself up to reading the Bible, and, for a fact, indulged freely in the ever-present bottle of cognac. In my humble judgment, his religious lucubrations and "Night Thoughts," which are so mixed and puzzling, are due not a little to brandy and soda; and it is to this fact, perhaps, that Burton refers. In his ordinary humor, Gordon was modesty, mildness and humility personified, but when excited by anger, or when under the influence of brandy, he was a sort of fiend.

His government of the Soudan in 1874 was marked by acts of inexcusable folly and, as he boasted, "hatched the Madhi." In 1878 all revenue had disappeared, disorder reigned in the government and waste in the finances, which were managed by menials who were literally kicked and spat upon by Gordon in his angry moods. In 1881 Soudan was in a state of insurrection in consequence of Gordon's utter lack of order.

His government Long describes as a costly and ridiculous farce. Gordon was an able engineer, but utterly without generalship from "a positive lack of that cerebral condition so absolutely necessary to a leader." Ambition led Gordon back to Khartoum in 1884. In his journal of Sept. 29th of that year he writes at Khartoum:

It is one of my joys that I never have to see Great Britain again. I hope to get out of this office, and either go to the Congo via equatorial provinces or by Brussels. I say this in order to that those who may have to do with me may know how very determined a man's will must be who does not wish (and in fact will not ever) go back to England again, and to whom continuance in Her Majesty's service, except for the honor of it, is a matter of indifference. I say this because I should be very sorry for Lord Wolseley to advance from Dongola without knowing my views.

Here he confesses that he came to the Soudan to stay, and had expected that on his return the mahdi would join him and help make him sultan of Soudan. Gladstone said in parliament that Gordon was sent to Soudan simply to evacuate the country with the Egyptian garrison, not to reconquer it. Gordon either strangely misunderstood his position or deliberately set about to reverse the purposes of his government. His has more the attitude of a carnal conqueror than of a Christian hero.

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

Mosquitoes and Other Annoying Insects to be Destroyed by Electricity.

Advices from Paris say that M. Pointeau, the renowned scientist and savant, and who has devoted the greater part of his life to making war on the innumerable hosts of insects of different species that are obnoxious to humanity, has finally perfected his anti-mosquito apparatus, which was briefly referred to by cable a few weeks ago. All of his recent tests have proved satisfactory. A company has been formed in Paris for the purpose of putting the invention on the market, and two well-known French stockbrokers will arrive in this country next week for the purpose of securing American patent rights. The idea of the illustrious savant is as simple as it is ingenious. In the interior of a large cage made of closely interlaced wire, is placed a small incandescent lamp. At night the mosquitoes, attracted by the glare, congregate on the outside of cage. On passing between the wires they receive an electrical discharge which causes instant death. This is accomplished by attaching to the cage wires which are placed in circuit with an electric motor, and a considerable number of these appliances can be operated on a single circuit. About three weeks ago an experiment on a somewhat expensive scale was tried in French Guiana. A number of the appliances were placed in circuit around one of the towns which suffers terribly during the hot season from these obnoxious pests. Attracted by the brilliancy of the peculiar and hitherto unknown constellation an innumerable army of mosquitoes arose in its might from the surrounding marshes and precipitated itself upon the town. Arrived at the outskirts, the visitors broke up into detachment, each of which advanced toward one of the lamps. On this a remarkable spectacle was witnessed. As each tiny insect attempted to pass between the bars, a minute electric spark announced that it had received a fatal shock, and as the crowd of insects grew thicker and thicker the cage flashed and scintillated as though an enormous horde of fire flies had taken up their abode within. When morning came the residents of the town were most surprised and gratified to find bushels of dead mosquitoes on the ground beneath each lamp. The French promoters of the company formed to embark M. Pointeau's invention propose to give exhibitions before the authorities of the principal seaside resorts on the Atlantic coast, and also in southern cities, and are sanguine that by next summer the system will be in full operation in numerous cities. Judging from the success of the experiments already made, it is considered certain that if the system is generally adopted in infested localities the mosquito as a species will have become extinct in a few years.

Extraordinary Deaths.

An odd accident occurred at Milazzo, on the fourth of last month. A sailing vessel from Genoa entered the port in the morning, and the crew proceeded to empty the barrels of sea water which formed the ballast. The first sailor who descended into the hold to take the bungs out of the barrels was overcome by the gas which issued, and fell suffocated. As he did not reappear, a second, a third and a fourth sailor followed and met, one after the other, with the same fate. Meanwhile, the fetid water was running out of the barrels, and the corpses were soon covered with it. At last, the captain, surprised at the long absence of the sailors, went below and approached the hatchway, when, the gases having arisen in greater quantity, he was also suffocated. The boy, the only member of the crew now alive, became aware of the horrid event, and crying to the people on shore, there soon arrived a crowd with some doctors. The bodies were dragged up and, every means employed to restore animation, but without effect.

A Temperance Story.

In front of one of the gilded gin palaces which line the streets of our cities, stood a group of young men beguiling the time with ribald jest, when there approached a youth whose thoughful brow and manly bearing strongly contrasted with theirs.

"Let us have some sport with the good boy," they said among themselves in wicked glee; and then they called jeeringly: "Hennery, won't you come and have a glass of be-or?"

The youth paused and gazed at them with a look of rebuke. "Listen, friends," he said, in a clear voice, "and I will tell you why I have naught to do with beer.

"My great-grandfather was a beer-drinker; he died of fatty degeneration of the heart. My grandfather drank beer; he fills the grave of the dropsical. My father drinks beer, he has had bilious fever twenty-seven times. I have promised my mother not to touch the debasing fluid. Let us take whiskey together and thus help me to keep my pledge.

The brave words of the noble youth triumphed and every one took whiskey.

FROM NELSON CITY.

Items of Interest to Mining Men and Others from the "Miner."

Preliminary arrangements are being made for the organization of a company to construct a telephone and telegraph line from Sproat to Little Dalles. If built the line will give the residents of Toad Mountain district communication with the outside world, as the Canadian Pacific is putting in a telephone line between Sproat and Nelson. At Little Dalles connection would be made with the telegraph line belonging to the Spokane Northern railway. The line can be constructed for about $3000, been subscribed. The line must be built this fall.

Telephone wires are being strung along the railway track east from Sproat, and complaints are made that the poles are so short that the wires are likely to decapitate horsemen passing along the trail.

There are 21,200 bricks moulded in the Nelson brickyard, and the owners expect to have a kiln of 35,000 ready for burning by the end of next week. The bricks will be a dark red in color, and if the clay burns as well as it molds the bricks will be of good quality.

One night this week a big poker game enlivened the otherwise dull town of Sproat. Over $600 was in one jack pot, which was finally won by an Okanagan cattle man, raising a Sproat man out of his boots by a $2000 bluff.

Potatoes from McLaughlin's ranch, to the south of the boundary line, are selling in Nelson for 3¼ cents a pound. In boiling each potato is tied round with a string to keep it from falling apart, they are so mealy.

J. C. Kykert, jr., claims that he has the finest vegetable garden in Kootenay district, and is shipping cabbages to the railroad contractors that weigh all the way from 12 to 21 pounds apiece. He also has melons, cucumbers and tomatoes of wonderful luciousness and enormous size.

Since arriving here two weeks ago, H. Jacoby has settled all outstanding claims against the Nelson City Improvement company and the Nelson City Townsite company. To do this required great good temper and much tact, all of which Mr. Jacoby is possessed of in a great degree.

The Chinese who located claims on Bird and Rover Creeks had disputes among themselves as to their respective rights, and called on Mining Recorder Griffin to straighten matters out for them. This week Mr. Griffin went over to Bird Creek and measured the claims for the different claimants, and now our wholesale merchants are doing a rushing business in rice, picks and shovels.

A crown grant to the Ayesha, a claim in the Hot Springs district, is being applied for. Some time ago surveys of the Morning and Evening claims in the Toad Mountain district, were made for the same purpose by Mr. A. S. Farwell.

Of the 35 laborers brought in by the railroad company for Keefer & Co., 51 of them jumped the job and started for Washington by way of Trail Creek. They were followed by John McLeod, a justice of the peace, and C.C.Sproule, Keefer & Co.'s master of transportation and commisary general. The only way that laborers can be kept on the work will be to pay them the rates prevailing on like works in Washington and Idaho.

The Davies-Sayward saw-mill at Pilot Bay, on the east side of Kootenay lake, is now so near completion that its manager expects to be able to make a trial run within a fortnight. Its machinery is of the best and of such variety as will enable the owners to turn out every description of manufactured lumber. The logs cut last winter by Robert Yuill and barked about 12 miles up the river from Nelson are being placed in booms to be towed to the mill, the Idaho to do the towing. The mill-owners have also called for tenders for delivering 500,000 feet of logs at the mill this year and 3,000,000 feet next year.

A mining man named Boss has visited Trail Creek camp, and, it is stated, offered the owners of the Center Star $2500 in cash for a $25,000 bond on that claim, the bond to run six months. The owners refused, they wanting $3000 in cash for $50,000 bond. Mr. Boss took samples out to Spokane, and was expected back on Friday's boat. It is stated that he also made the claim owners a proposition, to the effect that if they guarantee him 50 tons a day, he would put a concentrator in the camp within 60 days.

A strike on the Neosho, in Hot Springs district, caused some of the boys to make a midnight trip to stake off extensions on that claim. The new strike was made at a point about 150 feet south of the old workings, the ore being high-grade. A. D. Wheeler of the Skyline and Kraco has gone out to Spokane Falls to hurry up the hoisting machinery for these claims. The output of ore at the Skyline continues of about the same grade.

That the Kootenay Lake country has within its limits all the materials needed in the erection of good buildings is being proven by actual tests. That we have the finest granite on the Pacific coast is now an acknowledged fact.

For a few days last week the water supply was so low in the Poorman ditch that five stamps of the mill were hung up; but recent rains caused the supply to increase so that ten stamps are again dropping, not 10 hours a day, but 24. The ore now being stoped is high grade, and contains little or no sulphurets.

General Superintendent Abbott and Superintendent Marpole put in a day this week at Nelson, looking the field over for depot grounds. They say the company will make every effort to get the road to navigable water below Nelson by November 1st.

The owners of the Hall mines on Toad mountain have ordered 2,000 sacks, to enable them to make a shipment of ore this fall. The shipment will probably amount to 250 tons, and if the ore averages as well as former shipments, the total value of the 250 tons will not be far from $100,000. This ore was taken from the crosscut run from the 100-foot station last winter. The shipping ore of the Kootenay Lake country is necessarily high grade, as transportation charges are high. Former shipments from the Hall mines cost $28 for freight charges alone, and, as the same facilities have to be used, the rate will be no lower this fall. The tunnel now being run on the Silver King was in 163 feet on Monday, or about one-third the distance it is to run.

We have almost limitless areas of timber has long been known; and that our clay will make splendid brick has been demonstrated at Nelson. The one thing needed was lime rock. That, too, has been found in the vicinity of the Hendryx Blue Bell, on the east side of Kootenay lake. A kiln is now being burned and the lime will be ready for shipment by the 15th. The lime is of first quality in strength and whiteness, and two barrels of it will go as far as three of the common product. The Kootenay Lime company, and it intends burning 4 kilns of 400 bushels each this fall, and will burn more if the demand requires it.

Burst Again.

At an early hour this morning another break occurred in the twelve-inch main at Foote's Valley, near where it broke on Tuesday. A gang of men were sent out to effect repairs, and the break will be made good some time to-night.

To Replace the Box Drain.

Under Sanitary Officer Bailey's supervision a line of 12 inch drain pipes have been laid across Johnson street, and under Leahy's Brewery. This drain is to take the place of the wooden box drains which have rotted out. It will take the surface water and a great part of the natural water course which flows under the street, which has been a nuisance for years in that vicinity. When proper sewerage works are put in all this trouble of drains will be ended.

Malicious Habit.

The teacher at the Tolmie school, Saanich road, complains that some mischievous or malicious persons have made it a habit for the last two days to come to the school between 11 and 12 o'clock and throw stones through the windows. The police have been notified and if caught the parties may look forward to a good dose of work around the jail. The habit of breaking windows is bad enough but when stones are thrown through when the children are in school and stand a chance of being hurt the strong arm of the law wants to put its hand down.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN.

The Minister of Public Works—He Should Be Interviewed.

Sir Hector Langevin, K.C.M.G., Minister of Public Works, accompanied by his two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Chapais (his son-in-law and daughter), and Mr. Roy, his private secretary, arrived last night and are staying at the Driard. This never-tiring veteran is here to Victoria, the first having made about twenty years ago. His present trip to the Pacific was undertaken primarily for the benefit of his health, but in addition the minister is attending to the business of his department, which always has some work in progress in the various cities of the country. Sir Hector, of couse, like every other intelligent visitor, is delighted with what he has already seen in British Columbia, and especially with the evidences of material progress that he has ever where seen, and of course he is decidedly optimistic when the future of British Columbia is referred to. That is all very well and very pleasant in its way, but it may not be inopportune to remind those who have been finding fault with the Dominion Government for its general neglect of Victoria interests that now, when one of the cabinet ministers is with us is the time to protest and to point out what they want. There is the harbor, for instance, which requires dredging; there is the question of beggarly salaries to the post office clerks and letter carriers, which will result presently in the suspension of the delivery system; there is the old powder magazine in the park, an eyesore and a positive danger to the lives of citizens; there is the great question of lighting and buoying the coast, which for hundreds of miles is unmarked; there is the question of the fisheries regulations against which Wharf street and Fraser river canners were a few months ago loudly protesting; there is the outer wharf question; the China steamers question; the drill shed question; the reciprocity question as advocated by the board of trade; the question of Chinese immigration, advocated by Hon. Mr. Dewdney and recently revived by the Government organ; the question of a better telegraph service; and in short a score of questions of great public interest. The board of trade or any delegation of business men, might, with propriety, interview Sir Hector Langevin upon all or any of these matters. We are sure that the minister would receive them with every possible consideration, and would, in the customary way, represent their views to the cabinet. Some good might come out of such a conference. Sir Hector and party will leave for Vancouver to-morrow.

WATER WORKS INSPECTION.

Annual Trip of the Aldermen to Beaver Lake —A Pleasant Time.

The time honored custom of the board of aldermen visiting annually the waterworks supply of the city of Victoria, was duly observed yesterday. The civic party and invited guests left the city hall about half-past ten, and after a pleasant drive of an hour and a half, reached Stevens' hotel. A short stop was made there, and then the journey to the valve houses and dam at Beaver lake was taken up, and duly reached.

The works were inspected, and the water commissioner pointed out some improvements which need to be made, chiefly the construction of a canal from the filter beds to the feet of Elk Lake, so that Beaver lake can be drained and cleared of the masses of decaying vegetation which is now a source of trouble. The proposed of line the canal was gone over and the easiness of the scheme seen. The cut will all be through soil remarkably free from rock and comparatively level, only one slight rise of nine feet, for a few yards being encountered. The cutting of the canal will be one of the greatest improvements needed to the waterworks, with the exception of the 24-inch main, which latter can be put in at a nominal figure, excavations already being made for it. Some necessary alterations and repairs are needed to the filter beds and sheds, to meet the constantly growing demands of the city.

One very important matter was noticed, and that was the amount of water flowing into the Colquitz. Twenty-five miner's inches of good water was flowing over the weir, and the stream by the Saanich road was quite a brisk one. Several members of the party stated that more water was running down the creek this year than had formerly been flowing.

All the different features of the supply having been surveyed, boats were taken and a pull to the clear waters of Elk Lake enjoyed. Here the contrast between the slough-like Beaver Lake was very noticeable, and in the opinion of all the supply should be taken from the former lake. The whole party, after the tour of inspection had been made, adjourned to the Stevens' Hotel, where a substantial lunch was done justice to, the tramp through the woods on the line of the proposed canal, and pull up the lakes in the boats, having made the appetites of the party something tramp-like. Enough and to spare was provided, and the rich country fare was duly appreciated. After solids had been disposed of cigars and a glass of wine were indulged in, and some informal speech making done, and about five o'clock the return trip for home was commenced, all hands being benefitted by the practical knowledge gained of the actual needs of the water works system and the resources of it.

Inspecting the C. P. R.

The chief engineer of the C.P.R. Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, has arrived at Vancouver on a trip of inspection of the road. He has been much pleased with the state in which he has found the road from end to end. Improvements of a permanent character were also being continually made on it. He has not inspected the subsidiary lines in British Columbia, as they are not yet far enough advanced, but on his return he will go over a number of the lines in the Northwest Territories. Mr. Schreiber's private car, the Ottawa, is the first one fitted up with electric light which has come to Vancouver. The lights throw a strong mellow light, and add to the convenience of travelling to a very considerable extent.

An Excellent Investment.

Beautiful Women.

The magical efforts of Wisdom's Robertine as a beautifer and preserver of the complexion have been attested by thousands of leading ladies of society and the stage. It is the only article ever discovered which gives a natural and beautiful tint to the complexion, removing tan, sunburn, freckles and all roughness of the face and arms, leaving the skin soft, smooth and velvety. All remarks on its delightfuly cooling and refreshing properties, a distinction not found in any other similar article known. D. E. Campbell, agent. *

Death's Hand.

Dr. Jno. R. Rowbotham, a much respected resident of Quamichan, Cowichan district, died at his residence yesterday morning. The deceased was a retired officer, having held the rank of surgeon-general in the British army, and for some time past has been residing at Quamichan with his family. He was a victim of heart trouble and has been very low for some time, so death was not altogether unexpected, although a great blow to his family. He leaves a wife, son and three daughters, who have the sympathy of the whole community. The remains will be interred at Cowichan.

An Unfortunate Man.

Just one month ago Jno. D. Johnson, formerly a prominent citizen, was convicted to one month in the provincial jail, for being an idle person without any visible means of support. He had then only been discharged from the invalids' home a few days and was unable to work and was taken charge of more for charity than anything else. He was arrested again last evening by the police, as he had no place to sleep, and very slight chances for a square meal, and this morning his honor sentenced the unfortunate man to six months in jail. It seems a pity that a home is not established for men like this, as he, although not a subject for the asylum, needs a place where he can receive proper care. When Johnson had his share of this world's goods, and a good share he had, he was ever ready to help the needy, but was too generous for his own good, and this, along with whisky brought him down to what he now is.

Thoroughly Scottish.

The Sir William Wallace Society's rooms was filled to overflowing last evening with a thoroughly enthusiastic audience, who showed their appreciation of the dancing, music, etc., as Scotchmen generally do, in rounds of hearty applause. The principal features of the evening were the dances and songs by McKenzie Munro, and Mr. Weir, a noted piper from San Francisco, although the amateurs were almost perfect in their production of songs, readings and national dances. Mr. Beeton, Misses O'Neil, Russell, Jamieson, Robertson, and Messrs. Begg, Sutherland and Johnston favored the audience with songs. An Indian club exhibition by Mr. Boyd was splendid like the rest of the programme. At the conclusion of the concert the hall was cleared and the younger element indulged in dances, mostly Scottish, until an early hour. The society are to be complemented on the success of their efforts to give a thoroughly Scottish entertainment, as it was a grand success.

Muir vs. Robson.

The Vancouver Telegram refers to the Muir-Robson case in the Presbytery as follows: "In the afternoon the appeal case of Mr. Muir from the Session of St. Andrew's church, Victoria, came up, and some very peculiar features were developed. The Rev. Mr. McLeod with a document supplied from the Queen's printer in his hand, and which he attempted to introduce as evidence, complained that this was an attempt to ruin the Hon. John Robson politically, and made quite a political effort in his favor.

Mr. Muir showed clearly that if he was not persecuted, at least that he had been very harshly dealt with. It was suggested that he acknowledge his error in refusing to produce the evidence when asked for thus disobeying the session, and if he did so the session would restore him to church privileges and thus end the matter. Mr. Muir acted on the suggestion, and thus the snarl was straightened out."

The Columbian says of the same case: "A discussion followed, during which it was pointed out that if one member of the church makes a charge against the character of another and then refuses to produce a list of witnesses and documentary evidence to the Session even before the accused is asked to confess or deny the charge, the complainant may himself be found guilty of slander without any further proof or trial. One member went so far as to state that the Session had no other course to pursue."

Is that true?

Mr. Muir informs us that he does not intend to let the matter rest where it is.

Fifty-eight pieces linoleums, latest designs in all widths and qualities, just arrived at John Weiler's.

A CLOSE CALL.

A Shingler Falls From a Roof and is Seriously Injured.

A accident which might have proved fatal, occurred on Frederick street yesterday afternoon. P. Bourget, the well-known roofer, was walking across a board over an opening in the roof of W. McKeon's new house, when the board gave away and he fell through to the floor a distance of 25 feet. Unluckily he had his shingling hatchet in his hand, and when he came down he fell on it cutting his head very badly. He was immediately taken to St. Joseph's hospital, when it was found that he had, besides the cut in his head, broken his wrist and hurt his neck. He is being attended to by Dr. Helmcken and is resting easily this morning, and will, no doubt, be cut again before long.

NANAIMO NOTES.

Items of Interest From the Black Diamond City.

About twenty-five of the ladies and gentlemen, representatives to the Grand Lodge of Good Templars, paid a visit to the No. 1 esplanade shaft of the New Vancouver Coal Co., and were most courteously received by the mine officials, and taken through the principal workings of the extensive mine, the round journey occupying almost two hours.

The work of removing the old Bastion was commenced yesterday, and although a difficult undertaking promises to be completed to-morrow, and will adorn the site by the side of Hirst's wharf, opposite to its old position.

A party of five prospectors have returned from the interior after spending a few months prospecting these regions. They speak very highly of that country though very reticent as to their discoveries, but are firmly of the belief that next spring an excitement will be created there. They claim there are better indications of the precious metals to be met with in that part of the island than there is to be met with in any part of the coast.

A miner named Joseph Linholm, met with an accident in the East Wellington mines through his own carelessness while riding on an empty box running down the incline—which is against the rules. He was not hurt severely but escaped with a few cuts about the head from which it is stated he will soon recover.

NEEDS OF VICTORIA.

Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, Waited Upon.

This morning, Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, was waited upon at the Driard by a deputation from the British Columbia Board of Trade, composed of Messrs. Robert Ward, President; T. B. Hall; Vice-President; R. P. Rithet, and Thos. Earle, M. P. These gentlemen were very cordially received by the Minister, and after introductions had been made, the attention of Sir Hector was called to the following requirements:

The urgent necessity of a more liberal expenditure in harbor improvements, particularly a sum for a new and modern dredger; that the approaches to the outer wharf should be improved, and the harbor improved by a sea wall from Brotchie Ledge to Holland's Point. The lights beacons and buoys of the harbor and coast should also be better attended to, as they had been neglected in the past. An alternative telegraph line to the Island from the United States was also very important and necessary, and the Government was requested to sanction the application for the same. The need of the graving dock at Esquimalt being lengthened was also touched upon. The urgent need of the immediate removal of the powder magazine from Beacon Hill park was alluded to, and it was pointed out that in view of the large revenue obtained from Victoria by the Dominion Government appropriations should be made on a more liberal scale for the public works of the place.

The Minister promised to further to the best of his ability the consummation of the wishes of the delegation, and expressed himself of the opinion that the needs of Victoria would in the future receive the earest consideration of the Government.

Schoolmaster With Children Wanted.

The good people of Mayne Island, Truth says, are on the lookout for a qualified schoolmaster settler with several children. There are among the 55 or 60 inhabitants of the pleasant isle only eight or nine children expected to attend the public school, if re-established, for the minimum number of children of school age required to secure the local provision of a public school is ten. Thus the Mayne Islanders are anxious to induce a schoolmaster to go there and live among them with three or four children of his own to add to the population. There will then be little fear of the second failure of the school—a serious matter for the Mayne Island children, as the nearest school is now on Salt Springs Island, more than ten miles distant by sea.

The Jewish New Year.

The Jewish new year, or Rosh-a-Shonnah, begins to-morrow at six p.m., the observance of which continues during the next two days. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Max Hyman, as the synagogue, corner Blanchard and Pandora streets at six o'clock Sunday and Monday evenings, and at 8 o'clock Monday and Tuesday mornings. To-morrow will usher in a month of solemn festivals for the Hebrews, the ten days of Penance until Atonement Day, being followed by the Feast of Tabernacles, lasting eight days, and the Rejoicing of the Law.

Atonement Day is a day of strict fasting, upon which no orthodox Hebrew will partake of nourishment. The congregation in this city only numbers about forty or fifty members, and up to the present time has had no regularly ordained rabbi, but hope to have one at an early date from England.

The Miners' Case.

The Free Press says that in the miner's case Hon. C. E. Pooley, Q. C., President of the Council, will appear for the prosecution, while Mr. A. J. McColl and Mr. J. Campbell, of Vancouver, and Mr. C. Wilson, of Victoria, will probably appear for the defendants. It is said that a large number of witnesses will be summoned on behalf of the defendants.

Three Days an Obstruction.

For three days past an ugly, jagged rock of perhaps fifty or sixty pounds weight has lain in the middle of Broughton street near wharf. It is one which has dropped from a wagon load of stone, and nobody seemed to think it their business to take it from the street. A broken wagon wheel will be the result if the obstruction is left there much longer.

False Alarms.

Twice to-day the fire bell sent out its deep toned clang, and the fire laddies hurried to the engine houses only to find that it was a false alarm, caused by the wire of the system touching some other wire and causing a "ground." The touching of the wires was caused by a house which is being drawn along Pandora street, fouling the lines overhead. When these house movings are going on a little more care should be observed in clearing the wires, both fire alarm and telephone.

Prepare for Cold Weather.

Cold weather is coming and warmer clothing is quite necessary to preserve health, therefore you should act wise and save a dollar or two by having your last fall's overcoats and suits cleaned and repaired or dyed. Ladies' spring jackets can be dyed and made to look respectable for fall and winter. Bring them now to the Victoria Tailoring and Dying establishment, and avoid disappointment. No. 96 Yates street.

JNO. T. PIERRE, Proprietor.

N.B.—Another shipment of English trouserings to hand.

Wilful Burnings.

Some mischievous person or persons have amused themselves by setting fire to the mass of beach wood accumulated above the lagoon on Esquimalt harbor, beyond the rifle range. As a consequence the huge, massive tank built by Messrs. Larkin & Connolly when engaged upon the dock works at Esquimalt, has been burned, together with a cottage beyond and orchard, and the fire is now burning in the woods, whilst blackened stumps has taken the place of the greenery familiar to those who have been accustomed to picnic on this favorite spot. It was only this last week that the Transfer Company at Esquimalt lost 100 tons of hay by a fire in the woods at their farm. It is time some severe example was made of these hoodlum incendiaries. Six months in the chain gang in winter time might cool their ardor.

Natural History Society.

Yesterday morning a party composed of several members of the B. C. Natural History Society, took the steamer Alert and went on a cruise to Sydney Island and the waters in that vicinity. A very pleasant day was had, and lots of specimens were obtained, the dredge contributing crawly things by the score, while the gun procured several ornithological specimens. One unlucky gentleman, while in pursuit of a fine bird, had a capsize, he not understanding the proper way to navigate "the light canoe." He took his mishap in good part, however, and did not, like some of the drugs he is familiar with, flare up on touching the water. The captain and crew of the alert furnished every help they could to the society members, and all hands returned at 7 o'clock last evening, much benefitted by the outing. Among those on the trip were Mr. Newcombe, Messrs. Fannin, Campbell, Norgate, Merrill, Jones and others.

Naval Notes.

During the course of the next few weeks the fleet lying in Esquimalt harbor will be dispersed, and will in all probability, as far as can be learned at present, be sent to their different stations as follows:

H.M.S. Daphne will remain the winter here at Esquimalt.

H.M.S. Nymphe goes to Honolulu to relieve the Acorn, who goes south to meet her relief.

H.M.S. Espiegle goes to Coquimbo by way of Honolulu and Tahiti, and meets the flagship there.

H.M.S. Champion goes to Coquimbo on southern division, will likely leave before the flagship.

H.M.S. Warspite, the flagship, will leave on October 21st, calling in at San Francisco and different ports en route to Coquimbo, where she will pick up the other ship and will most likely return about March next.

It is rumored that H.M.S. Amphion will likely be sent to the China station.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

"Pinafore" Delights a Large Audience at Seattle.

A Seattle exchange says: "The performance of 'H. M. S. Pinafore,' which marked the opening of the Marion street theatre last evening, even exceeded the great promise made for it, and delighted an audience which crowded every inch of space in the auditorium. Nearly every well-known member of local society was present, and they all joined in enthusiastic applause of the faithful rendering of the familiar and favorite songs of the most popular of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas.

"For the excellence of the singing and the admirable training of the chorus the audience have to thank Professor Sharpe, of Victoria, who has been most indefatigable at rehearsals, and crowned his labors by conducting the performance. The fine scenery was painted by A. Buchan."

The performance is to be repeated here on Monday next, by the Seattle Amateur Company, under the direction of Mr. Frederick Adderley, and those who desire an evening's thorough enjoyment should reserve their seats.

Not Superstitious.

Yesterday at the dinner of the aldermen at Stevens' hotel, there were just thirteen seated at the table. This gruesome and proverbially unlucky number did not cause the thirteen any uneasiness, however, and the meal passed off enlivened by joke, song and story as if thirteen had never been heard of as unlucky.

The Northern Trip.

The steamer Yosemite went to Vancouver this morning in place of the Islander which steamer is being cleaned up preparatory to her trip up north. She leaves on Monday and will be well filled up with passengers who all expect to have a thorough good time. The time of the year is just right for good weather and those who go may expect to see fine scenery, lots of curiosities, and be well treated on one of the finest steamers on the coast.

That Chinese Case.

That everlasting Chinese larceny case came up in the police court again this morning and was further remanded until Monday. The case attracts a good deal of attention among the Chinese residents, but among the few white stragglers who are around the courts every day look for the doors when the contemplated case is called, it evidently being "too deep" for them. The principal thing done this morning was the making out of warrants for the arrest of an alleged accomplice, who was lodged in jail during the afternoon.

More Repairs.

A gang of men are at work re-roofing with asphalt and sand the new law courts. This seems strange when it is remembered that the building has hardly been erected a year, and was supposed to have been constructed in a manner which would enable it to withstand for years the storms and sunshine, without feeling the ravening tooth of time. But already a lot of the public cash is being expended in a new roof. Is it possible that the law courts were erected so that government supporters would never be out of a job?

For the Northern Trip.

Already a large number of people have taken tickets for the northern trip of the C. P. N. Co's steamer Islander, which will leave on Monday evening in command of Captain Irving. The following names are already booked: Messrs. Bigmore, Ker, Price, Taggart, Gibson, McDonald, Dr. McLaren, Stevens, Cooper, Winter, Pope, Sorby, McDowell, Field, Boscowitz, Winslow, McPhadden, Goffin, Crow Baker, Revs. White and Tait, Jackson, Blow, Mesdames Taylor, Buckett, Sorby, Heathfield, McNair, Clark, White, Baker and Austin. The steamer does not leave until Monday evening, and it is quite likely that several more passengers will register before her departure.
